Spring
Showdown

Dear 4-Her's, Families, Volunteers, and Leaders,

We recently entered Phase 2 of the Arizona Cooperative Extension Re-Entry plan. This is an exciting step towards full capacity allowing us to meet again in larger group opening up more opportunities for in-person activities again. As we navigate this phase of reopening we appreciate your patience and understanding for the requirements we have to put on our spring competitions and other in-person programming during is time. 4-H is not considered an essential activity so we are working our hardest to comply with both county and extension policies while also providing valuable programming for our youth.

Best,

Kalee Hunter, Liz Sparks, Josh Moore, and Monique Talamantes

Wishing Pima County 4-H Agent Josh Moore Farewell

There is a slight change that will be happening in the 4-H office this upcoming month. At the end of April 4-H Agent, Josh Moore will be stepping away from the University of Arizona, Cooperative Extension Service. Josh has remarked that he has treasured his time in Pima County and will miss the relationships that he made with 4-H members and families during his service in the county.

In early May, Josh will be starting a new position in Parker, Arizona as the Farm Manager for the Colorado River Indian Tribes. In addition to a new career, the Moore family looks forward to moving closer to their family in Western Arizona.

With that being said, our transition plans include working with the County Extension Director to try and fill Josh's position as soon as possible. We do not have a timeline just yet, but we have started the process of filling Josh's position. We recently selected two AmeriCorps to come on board over the summer that will help with projects and programs that Josh manages.

If you wish send Josh a farewell you can email him at jdmoore@arizona.edu or his mailing address until the end of April is:
